The Master of Arts in Liberal Arts and Sciences
MALAS MA Comprehensive Exam | August 9, 2013

The MALAS Comprehensive MA Exam questions allow students to demonstrate their familiarity with the specific works on the reading lists they have developed in conjunction with their faculty field advisors. As MALAS is an interdisciplinary studies program, graduate students should attempt to address phenomena in ways that demonstrate their mastery of ideas, theories, methods, and conventions associated with more than one field. Although students preparing for the exam will be encouraged to read as much of the relevant criticism as is feasible, they will not be held specifically responsible for knowing any particular criticism of individual works; that said, showing familiarity in the responses with dominant critical debates in and across fields is welcome.

Grading Guidelines

1. Distinction: A superior exam
   -- is a clearly focused response to the topic in fluent, dynamic prose
   -- is well-organized and well-developed
   -- has unified and coherent paragraphs
   -- incorporates specific and appropriate references to texts that were part of the graduate students’ MA exam list.
   -- demonstrates the graduate students’ command with the subject matter in more than one specific discipline—in other words, the student shows strong familiarity with the material in ways that demonstrate a distinctive command of interdisciplinary studies and/or cultural studies protocols, practices, and traditions.

2. Pass: An adequate exam
   -- demonstrates a thoughtful response to the topic within an overall plan, even if the treatment of some points is only perfunctory
   -- logically develops ideas in ordered paragraphs
   -- may have lapses in providing transitions
   -- may occasionally rely on unsupported assertions and generalizations.
   -- demonstrates the graduate students’ familiarity with the subject matter in more than one specific discipline.

3. Fail: An inadequate exam
   -- discusses the topic only generally or does not directly respond to the topic
   -- does not follow a reasonable or appropriate pattern of development
   -- lacks specific textual support for assertions and generalizations
   -- fails to develop appropriate examples
   -- demonstrates no command of the subject matter in more than one specific discipline.

Adapted from protocols developed by the Department of English and Comparative Literature and other College of Arts and Letters Departments, SDSU June 2009. Updated and revised May 2013
AREA I | Children in Survival Literature
SUPERVISOR | ALIDA ALLISON

Island of the Blue Dolphins
Scott O’Dell

The Cay
Theodore Taylor

Hatchet
Gary Paulsen

My Side of the Mountain
Jean Craighead George

Julie of the Wolves
Jean Craighead George

Life of Pi
Yann Martel

AREA I | Wildlife Conservation
SUPERVISOR: PAM FOX

Loss of Biodiversity
Sharon L. Spray & Karen L. McGlothlin

Hope for Animals and Their World: How Endangered Species Are Being Rescued from the Brink
Jane Goodall

The Future of Life
Edward O. Wilson

100 Heartbeats: The Race to Save Earth’s Most Endangered Species
Jeff Corwin

Life in the Balance: Humanity and the Biodiversity Crisis
Niles Eldredge

AREA III | Environmental Themes in Children’s Picture Books and Films
SUPERVISOR | WILLIAM NERICCIO

The Great Kapok Tree
Lynne Cherry

A River Ran Wild: An Environmental History
Lynne Cherry

The Lorax
Dr. Seuss

The Giving Tree
Shel Silverstein

The Wump World
Bill Peet

FernGully: The Last Rainforest
20th Century Fox

WALL-E
Disney/Pixar

Pocahontas
Disney

Happy Feet
Warner Bros.

The Rescuers Down Under
Disney

Advocating Environmentalism: The Voice of Nature in Contemporary Children’s Literature
Jennifer A. Wagner-Lawlor

Overcoming “Ecophobia”: Fostering Environmental Empathy Through Narrative in Children’s Science Literature
Diane M. McKnight

Children’s Environmental Literature: From Ecocriticism to Ecopedagogy
Greta Gaard

Movements That Are Drawn: A History of Environmental Animation from The Lorax to FernGully to Avatar
Nicole Starosielski
Exam Question I: CHILDREN IN SURVIVAL LITERATURE, 8:30am to 10:20 am

You MAY, if you wish, use a laptop today, however, all connections to wi-fi MUST BE DISABLED—I have a thumb-drive to ferry your finished responses to my own workstation for printing. If your laptop does not have a USB-compatible port, you will be allowed to log-on to SDSU wi-fi at the end of each session to zap your responses to me (memo@sdsu.edu) for printing. You are also welcome to bring a blue book and several pens/markers. This is a closed-book, no notes examination—do not consult any other files on your laptop or in your possession during the exam.

RESPOND TO ONE OF THE TWO FOLLOWING PROMPTS:

1. The dearth of contemporary stories for children about or in nature has been remarked upon by many critics. Indeed, the majority of books in the reading list for this section of your exam are from earlier decades. Only one, Life of Pi, is 21st century. Yet, in Martel’s novel, the protagonist is, notably, without modern technological devices and must therefore rely on his personal resources the same as the other protagonists on your reading list.

   In these survival stories, parents and adults in general are typically absent. Survival depends solely on the child/teenager—or does it? While nurture does help in several cases in which the protagonist is already acquainted with nature, some are more prepared than others, yet each draws upon some kind of external aid to overcome, or at least ameliorate, the situation they are in.

   Discuss three novels in which the preparation of the main character differs and explain how these differences play out in various stages of the survival experience. How do the protagonists come to realize the need for and then incorporate the external helper into his/her survival?

2. Karana and Julie wind up isolated from their families and communities for different reasons, yet their gender plays a crucial role in their ability to survive. Discuss the genesis of their having to survive on their own and the decisions they must make to stay alive, even at the cost of breaking taboos. Then discuss a male protagonist of your choice. Contrast the genesis of his isolation to the women’s. Does he have similar societal restraints to his ability to survive? Finally, discuss the outcomes of the stories. Having survived, do the protagonists find different receptions upon their return and why?
Exam Question II "Gender Play & Programming: Identity Politics and the Indoctrination of Children", 10am to 11:50am

You MAY, if you wish, use a laptop today, however, all connections to wi-fi MUST BE DISABLED -- I have a thumb-drive to ferry your finished responses to my own workstation for printing. If your laptop does not have a USB-compatible port, you will be allowed to log-on to SDSU wi-fi at the end of each session to zap your responses to me (memo@sdsu.edu) for printing. You are also welcome to bring a blue book and several pens/markers. This is a closed-book, no notes examination—do not consult any other files on your laptop or in your possession during the exam.

RESPOND TO ONE OF THE FOLLOWING PROMPTS:

QUESTION 1: Judith Butler said gender is a performance influenced by culture. How do your seven (7) theorists (writing as individuals: Orenstein; Smith; Schor; Eliot; Kane; or as a team: two women, Lamb/Brown; two men, Kindlon/Thompson) propose to combat the marketing/commercialization of gender in boys and girls? We know the problems, but what are the specific solutions, both short- and long-term in allowing American culture to accommodate a more broad spectrum of gender potential? What will you do as a mother, and as an activist in your community to put into practice the theories you have read about in this reading list?

OR

QUESTION 2: Cultural instability and economic turmoil bordering on anarchy would result from rampant individualism. We must teach boys and girls how to behave properly because telling young children "anything goes" and "just be yourself" is too confusing, and they may only end up being made in the image of (indoctrinated by) the well-intentioned reformer. Indoctrination (marketing, packaging, commercializing) is essential in a capitalist democracy to ensure a stable social contract that perpetuates a status quo. Either way, indoctrination will come in some form: from the conservatives (saying gender is fixed) or the reformers (saying gender is fluid). It is impossible for anyone to truly be an individual.

Consider the above statements and based on your seven (7) theorists, address the following: Is it really possible to avoid indoctrination from either end of the spectrum: from those who view gender as essential (as innate, encoded DNA from birth that determines whether a boy or girl acts masculine or feminine) or constructed (acculturated, learned, performed, artificially adopted because of environment)? What makes one side more right than the other?
Exam Question III: HYPER MASCULINE MASS MEDIA IDEOLOGY OF BLACK MALES, 12noon-1:50pm

You MAY, if you wish, use a laptop today, however, all connections to wi-fi MUST BE DISABLED --I have a thumb-drive to ferry your finished responses to my own workstation for printing. If your laptop does not have a USB-compatible port, you will be allowed to log-on to SDSU wi-fi at the end of each session to zap your responses to me (memo@sdsu.edu) for printing. You are also welcome to bring a blue book and several pens/markers. This is a closed-book, no notes examination—do not consult any other files on your laptop or in your possession during the exam.

CHOOSE ONE OF THE TWO FOLLOWING PROMPTS:

Choose one of the two following prompts:

1. In your research for this exam you have studied a hyper-masculine mass media ideology of black male reading list. Based on this scholarship, analyze one critical issue currently defining the field. As you articulate theorists and theories on this topic, you should also clearly convey in your essay your own critical position on the topic.

OR

2. The reading and film list focuses on hyper-masculine mass media ideology of black males. Arguably, this scholarship is itself a “gendered conversation” or one that focuses specifically on black male identity construction in media. Is there not an implicit – perhaps at least symbiotic – relationship between black male hyper-masculinity and black female hyper-femininity construction in mass media ideology? In short, what is the relationship (if any) between the categories of hyper-masculinity and hyper-femininity among the “black sexes” in mass culture/media ideology? In addition to issues of race and sex, how might issues of class and power contribute to this conversation?